PRIVACY

Privacy policy.

How ICAIO collects, uses, stores and protects your personal information.

Last updated: [date of publication]

1. About this policy

This policy explains how the Institute of Chief AI Officers ("ICAIO", "we", "us") handles personal information. We are committed to handling personal information in line with the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) and the Australian Privacy Principles.

2. Who we are

ICAIO is being established as an independent, not-for-profit professional institution for executives accountable for enterprise AI in Australia. Until ICAIO is incorporated, this website and any personal information collected through it are managed by [responsible entity name], ABN [ABN]. Personal information will be transferred to ICAIO once it is incorporated.

3. The information we collect

We collect only what we need for the purposes described in this policy.

- Founding Council expression of interest: your name, work email, role title, organisation, sector, the scope of your enterprise AI accountability, the domains where you could contribute, and your LinkedIn profile if you provide it.
- Register interest: your name, email, the capacity in which you are interested, and any message you send.
- Correspondence: information you give us when you email or speak with us.
- Technical information: limited information needed to operate and protect the website, such as information used to prevent spam form submissions.

We do not ask for sensitive information, such as health information, and ask that you do not include it in any message.

4. How we collect it

We collect personal information directly from you when you complete a form, email us or speak with us. Because Founding Council membership is by invitation, we may also collect professional information about senior executives from publicly available sources, such as company websites and professional profiles, or from people who recommend them. If we do this, we will tell you when we first contact you.

5. How we use it

- To consider expressions of interest in the Founding Council, including alignment discussions and appointment decisions.
- To keep you informed about ICAIO's development, if you have asked us to.
- To respond to your enquiries.
- To plan ICAIO's membership, research and events.
- To operate, secure and improve this website.

We will not sell your personal information or use it for any purpose you would not reasonably expect.

6. Who we share it with

We share personal information only where needed for the purposes above, including with:

- ICAIO's founder, independent Chair and, once appointed, Founding Council members involved in considering appointments;
- service providers who host this website, process forms or send email for us, under appropriate confidentiality obligations;
- anyone else with your consent, or where required or authorised by law.

Founding Council members' names and profiles are published only with their consent.

7. Overseas disclosure

Some of our service providers may store or process information outside Australia. These are currently expected to include [hosting, form and email providers and the countries involved]. We take reasonable steps to ensure they handle personal information consistently with the Australian Privacy Principles.

8. Storage and security

We take reasonable steps to protect personal information from misuse, interference, loss, and unauthorised access, modification or disclosure. Access is limited to people who need it for the purposes above.

9. How long we keep it

We keep personal information only for as long as we need it for the purposes above, or as required by law. If you are not invited to the Founding Council, we keep your details so that we can consider you for future roles and keep you informed, unless you ask us to delete them.

10. Access, correction and deletion

You can ask to access, correct or delete the personal information we hold about you by contacting us. We will respond within a reasonable time, usually within 30 days.

11. Updates from us

We will send updates only if you have asked for them. Every email includes a way to unsubscribe, or you can contact us at any time.

12. Cookies and analytics

This website does not currently use advertising or analytics cookies. We may use a spam-protection service on our forms, which processes limited technical information to tell people apart from automated submissions. If we introduce analytics, we will update this policy first.

13. Questions and complaints

If you have a question or complaint about how we handle personal information, please contact us at [privacy@caio.org.au]. We will respond within 30 days. If you are not satisfied with our response, you can contact the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner at oaic.gov.au.

14. Changes to this policy

We may update this policy as ICAIO is established. The current version will always be on this page.

TERMS

Terms of use and disclaimer.

The terms that apply when you use this website.

Last updated: [date of publication]

1. About these terms

This website is operated by [responsible entity name], ABN [ABN], on behalf of the Institute of Chief AI Officers ("ICAIO") while it is being established. By using this website, you agree to these terms.

2. An institution being established

ICAIO is being established and has not yet been incorporated. Its structure, governance, membership, programs and outputs described on this website are proposed and may change. Nothing on this website is an offer of membership, appointment or services.

3. Not professional advice

The content on this website is general information about enterprise AI leadership and ICAIO's proposed work. It is not legal, financial, technical or other professional advice, and does not take your circumstances into account. You should obtain appropriate advice before acting on it.

4. Accuracy

We take care to keep this website accurate and current, and we cite sources for statistics and forecasts. We do not guarantee that the content is complete, accurate or up to date, and forecasts by third parties are their own.

5. Illustrative content

Some images on this website are illustrative and do not show ICAIO members, Council members or supporters.

6. Intellectual property

The content of this website, including the Enterprise AI Leadership model, text, frameworks and design, belongs to ICAIO or is used with permission. You may view, download and share it for personal, non-commercial purposes with attribution to ICAIO. Any other use requires our written permission.

7. Information you submit

When you submit a form, you confirm that the information is accurate and that you are entitled to provide it. Submitting an expression of interest does not create any obligation for ICAIO to invite or appoint you. We handle your personal information in line with our privacy policy.

8. Acceptable use

You must not use this website unlawfully, interfere with its operation or security, or submit false, misleading or automated information.

9. Links to other websites

This website may link to other websites. We do not control them and are not responsible for their content or privacy practices. A link does not mean we endorse the website or organisation.

10. Liability

To the extent permitted by law, we exclude all liability for any loss or damage arising from your use of, or reliance on, this website. Nothing in these terms excludes rights you have under the Australian Consumer Law that cannot be excluded.

11. Governing law

These terms are governed by the laws of [Victoria], Australia.

12. Changes and contact

We may update these terms as ICAIO is established. The current version will always be on this page. For questions, contact [hello@caio.org.au].

ICAIO acknowledges the Traditional Custodians of the lands across Australia on which we live and work, and pays respect to Elders past and present. We recognise Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples' continuing connection to land, waters and culture.
